The Fifth District includes the cities of Albany, Berkeley, Emeryville and Piedmont; the West Oakland, North Oakland and Rockridge communities and portions of the Grand Lake, Manzanita, Dimond District and Fruitvale neighborhoods.

Dear District 5 Resident,

I would like to wish you and your loved ones a Happy Spring. I enjoyed seeing many of you at our Women's History Month and Planning and Caring events (see back page for pictures). Keep an eye out for our office at the street fairs this summer and fall around District 5!

This season is busy as always at the Board of Supervisors. As Chair of the Budget Committee, I oversee the process to address the budget deficit, which this year totals $88.1 million. The gap still reflects the effects of a slow economic recovery, less than rosy revenues and higher costs related to an increased demand for services. Please see page 2 for a list of Budget Workgroup meetings to inform the public about the process.

Please read the articles and notices in our newsletter and share it with your friends and family!

Sincerely,

Keith Carson
Alameda County Supervisor, Fifth District

Youth and Family Hubs in Berkeley and Oakland

At recent meetings of the Board of Supervisors, three Berkeley organizations and two Oakland organizations were approved for funding to develop Youth and Family Opportunity Hubs (YFOH) in Northern Alameda County.

A program of the Alameda County Health Care Services Agency, Children & Youth Initiative, the YFOH funds are awarded to organizations that provide wrap-around services that improve attendance and graduation rates among 8th and 9th grade youth.

Berkeley Alliance was awarded a $100,000 contract, while Berkeley Youth Alternatives and YMCA of the Central Bay Area were both awarded $200,000 contracts. Youth Radio, which now operates out of a building in downtown Oakland, will receive $200,000. Alternatives in Action was awarded $500,000 to establish a youth and family hub in the West Oakland area.

Youth and Family Opportunity Hubs are set up to run through organizations that serve youth and families in a specific geographic area. The hubs are part of a two-year strategy in Alameda County to coordinate resources and deliver

Budget Workgroup Update

- Budget Workgroup Meeting: Monday, May 14, 2-3 pm, 125 12th St., Oakland, CA, 4th floor
- Proposed Budget to Board: June 5
- Budget Hearings: June 18-21
- Final Budget Adoption: June 22

At the April 24 Budget Workgroup meeting, Alameda County officials identified a gap of $88.1 million in the County's 2012-2013 budget.

In the month of May, department heads have been tasked with identifying strategies for closing that gap within specific service areas.

A proposed budget will come before the Board on June 5, followed by a series of public hearings at the Board chambers.

A final budget will be adopted by June 22, 2012.

For more information about the budget, visit:

Cut Your Traffic Fines by up to 50% Program Ends June 30

Alameda County residents with overdue traffic tickets have less than two months left to pay up through an amnesty program that allows some fines to be cut in half.

Since January 1, courts in Alameda County and elsewhere throughout California have offered amnesty to people who have not paid traffic-ticket fines due before January 1, 2009. The amnesty program allows people to make good on their debt and shaves 50 percent off the amount due.

The amnesty program ends June 30, 2012.

Healthy Eating Made Easy in 2012

Are you trying to eat healthier? With all of the diets and fads out there, it can be confusing to come up with a plan and stick with it. Gone are the days of the four food groups and the food pyramid.

In 2011, the USDA (United States Department of Agriculture) released an updated set of nutritional guidelines called "MyPlate." Vegetables and grains occupy the largest portions of the plate, with fruits and protein filling out the rest of the dietary picture. Fat-free and low-fat dairy options are recommended to balance out a healthy diet.

The Choose My Plate website has a wealth of information about health eating tips, guidelines for physical activity, how to eat health on a budget, and sample menus. For more information, please visit:

<http://www.choosemyplate.gov/>

Here in Alameda County, there are numerous resources that can help you eat and even grow your own healthy foods. The Alameda County Public Health Department offers classes and resources for pregnant and breast-feeding women through the WIC program:

<http://www.acphd.org/wic.aspx>

CalFresh, California's SNAP (food stamp) program, provides nutritional support for low-income individuals and families: http://www.alamedasocialservices.org/public/services/food_assistance/. A new web and text app shows you which stores in your neighborhood accept food stamps: <http://www.snapfresh.org/>

Phat Beets Produce offers a local, organic CSA (community supported agriculture) box of produce and runs community gardens and education sessions. Discounts for low-income residents are available and EBT/ WIC is accepted. <http://www.phatbeetsproduce.org/>

Get Up to $5,000 in Rebates & Free Consulting Services to Help Green Your Small Business!

Are you passionate about making green upgrades to your business but not sure where to begin? If so, check out StopWaste.Org's Small Commercial Green Materials Rebate Program. With over 20,000 small businesses in Alameda County, StopWaste.Org is helping small commercials by offering up to $5,000 in green materials rebates and free consulting services.

The rebate money will help pay for recycled-content materials such as salvaged and composite wood, carpet, tile, insulation and recycled paint for building exteriors.

The free consulting service will help identify the best ways to green your commercial space; navigate the various energy and water-efficiency rebates available; and provide unbiased opinion on cost-effective strategies to help lower operating costs.

To be eligible, commercial building projects must be no more than 10,000 square feet and enrolled in the program by June, 2012. The total amount of funding available is $50,000, enough for 10 businesses to participate.

For more details, visit the Small Commercial Green Materials Rebate Program at:

integrated systems of services, supports and opportunities at the neighborhood level.

What does that mean for residents and youth? Franklin Hysten, Senior Director of Community Programs for Alternatives in Action (AIA), describes how the funding has allowed them to build out programming at the new McClymonds Youth and Family Center. Youth participate in after-school programs, learn video and music editing, take dance lessons and engage in leadership activities. In addition, AIA is convening a Parent Advisory Council in West Oakland to engage parents in the educational process and increase student retention at West Oakland schools.
